Each winter the Frostwood campers pitch their tents beside the mountain pines, from the lodge meadow up the hollow trail to the ridge. This year the maps are smudged. 180 clearings need their tents put back beside the trees before the first cocoa of the evening. Every puzzle has exactly one solution, and every one can be solved by logic alone, with no guessing.

BEFORE YOU PITCH CAMP

HOW TO PLAY

Each puzzle is a square clearing dotted with pines. Your job is to pitch a tent for every pine, following three rules:

- * Every pine has exactly one tent, and that tent sits in a square sharing a side with the pine (not only a corner).
- * Tents never touch, not even at the corners. Two tents may not sit in neighbouring squares.
- * The numbers beside each row and above each column tell you how many tents that row or column holds.

Useful Tricks

- * Start with the zeros. A row or column numbered 0 has no tents at all — mark every open square in it empty.
- * Forced neighbours. When a pine has only one free square beside it, that square is its tent. When you place a tent, mark its eight neighbours empty (tents never touch), and tick off its pine.
- * Last squares standing. When a row or column still needs as many tents as it has open squares, they are all tents.
- * Orphan squares. A square that is not beside any pine still waiting for a tent cannot hold a tent — mark it empty.
- * What if? From Part Two on, you may have to suppose a square holds a tent, follow the consequences, and see a pine or a row run out of room. Then you know that square is empty (or the other way around).

The puzzle					Zeros filled in					Solved

This small 5×5 clearing has three pines. Rows are numbered from the top (starting at 0 in the labels below) and columns from the left.

1. Rows 0 and 3 (counting from the top) both say 0, and so do columns 2 and 4. Mark every square in those rows and columns empty — no tent can go there.
2. The pine in row 1, column 3 now has only one free neighbour left: the square below it. Put a tent there. Column 3 has its one tent, so the rest of that column is empty.
3. The pine in the bottom row (row 4, column 2) likewise has only one free neighbour: the square to its left. Put a tent there. Row 4 is done.
4. Row 2 already has its one tent (the one under the first pine), so its other open square is empty. That leaves the pine in row 2, column 0 with a single free neighbour above it. Put the last tent there, and the meadow is settled.

Solutions are at the back of the book.

THE LODGE MEADOW

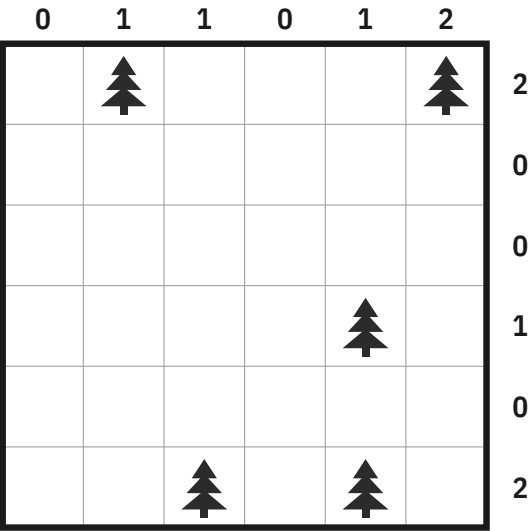

Puzzles 1 to 40

Six-by-six clearings with five to seven pines. Start with the zeros: any row or column numbered 0 is empty, and a pine with only one free neighbour must have its tent there.

THANK YOU FOR CAMPING

TENTS IN FROSTWOOD

If you enjoyed pitching tents among the Frostwood pines, a short review helps other puzzlers find the book. The campers read every one, usually by the fire after the last tent is guyed down for the night.
