Every winter someone at the Frostwood Lodge keeps a sketchbook on the sitting-room table, and every guest adds a drawing. This year the drawings were written down in numbers instead of pencil lines, so that anyone could draw them again. 140 sketches wait inside, from the fireside to the mountaintop. Each one has exactly one solution, and each can be finished by logic alone, with no guessing.

SHARPEN YOUR PENCIL

HOW TO PLAY

Each puzzle is a square grid hiding a picture. Shade the right squares and the sketch appears. These puzzles are often called nonograms, hanjie or paint-by-number grids.

- * The numbers beside each row give the lengths of the runs of shaded squares in that row, in order from left to right.
- * The numbers above each column give the runs in that column, in order from top to bottom.
- * Between two runs there is at least one empty square. A row marked 0 is empty.
- * Shade squares that must be filled, and put a small dot in squares you know are empty.

Useful Tricks

- * Big runs first. Slide a run as far left as it can go, then as far right. Any squares it covers both times must be shaded. A run of 12 in a row of 15 always covers the middle 9.
- * Add them up. For a row with several runs, add the runs plus one gap between each. If the total is close to the row length, the same sliding trick shades squares inside each run.
- * Finished lines. When a row or column has all its runs, dot every other square in it.
- * Edges. A shaded square at the edge of the grid starts the first run (or ends the last one), so you can shade the rest of that run at once.
- * Back and forth. Every square you settle in a row is a new clue for its column. Keep switching between rows and columns. Every puzzle in this book can be finished this way, one line at a time, with no guessing.

LET'S DRAW A COTTAGE

A WORKED EXAMPLE

The puzzleAfter the rowsSolved

This small 8×8 sketch is a good place to start. Rows are counted from the top and columns from the left.

1. Rows 4 and 8 both say 8, the full width of the grid, so every square in them is shaded.
2. Rows 3 and 7 say 6. Slide a run of six all the way left, then all the way right: either way it covers columns 3 to 6, so shade those four squares in both rows. That is the middle picture.
3. Now the columns. Columns 1 and 8 say 1 1 and already have their two shaded squares (rows 4 and 8), so dot the rest. Columns 2 and 7 say 6: one run must reach both row 4 and row 8, so it fills rows 3 to 8.
4. Back to the rows, then the columns again. Each pass settles a few more squares, and soon the sketch is done: a little cottage with its door, standing on the snow.

Solutions, with the name of every picture, are at the back of the book.

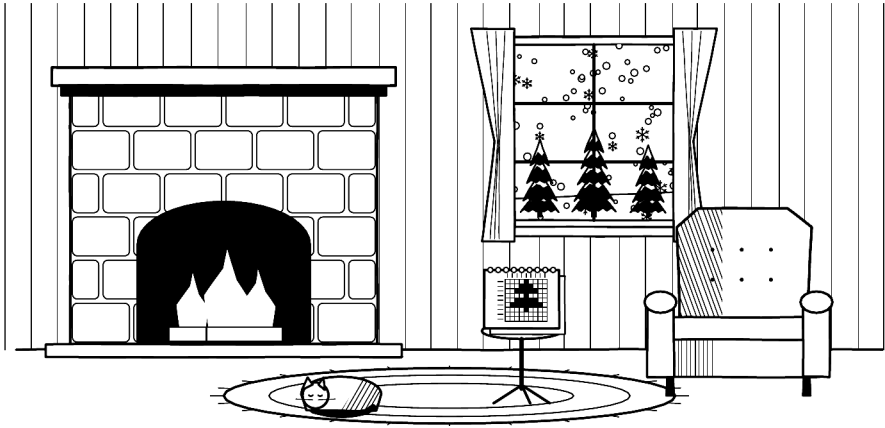

PART ONE · EASY · 15×15

THE LODGE SITTING ROOM

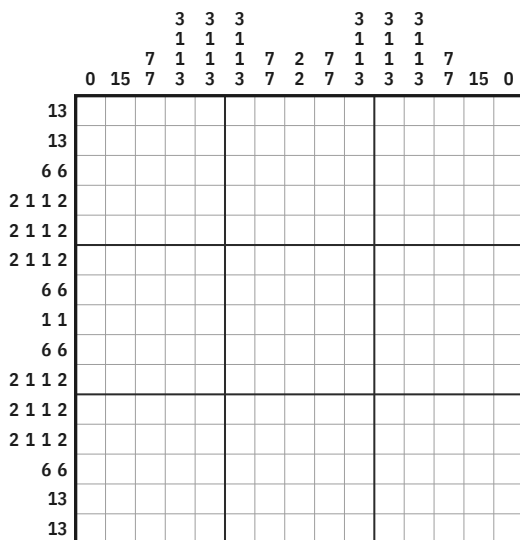

Puzzles 1 to 30

Fifteen-by-fifteen sketches made indoors, by the fire and around the lodge. Start with the big numbers: a long run in a short row always covers its middle squares.
